

Arunachal Ka Amrit, Bharat Ki Aasha – A Special Documentary Series

on CNBC Awaaz

Hydro Power Development Corporation of Arunachal Pradesh Limited (HPDCAPL) is pleased to present “Arunachal Ka Amrit, Bharat Ki Aasha”, a special two-episode documentary series scheduled for telecast on the national business news channel CNBC Awaaz.

The documentary series highlights the immense hydropower potential of Arunachal Pradesh, along with the opportunities, benefits and challenges associated with the development of hydropower projects in the State.

Arunachal Pradesh possesses one of the largest hydropower potentials in India, estimated at around 58,000 MW. The planned and responsible development of this vast potential can contribute significantly towards clean and renewable energy generation, enhancement of State revenue, employment opportunities, development of roads and bridges, strengthening of local infrastructure, socio-economic development and the overall economic growth of the State and the Nation.

At the same time, hydropower development needs to be undertaken in a scientifically planned, environmentally responsible and socially inclusive manner, with due consideration to environmental protection, forest diversion, biodiversity conservation, interests of local communities, rehabilitation and resettlement, downstream impacts and maintenance of ecological flows.

The documentary series seeks to highlight the importance of harnessing Arunachal Pradesh’s enormous hydropower potential in a responsible and sustainable manner, while maintaining an appropriate balance between energy development, environmental conservation and the well-being of local communities.
